To Whom It Concerns,

As a parent, I am very much concerned about the quality of children's TV programs. High quality children's TV benefits not only children but parents but our society as well.

We need high quality children's TV. We don't want to settle for less but we shouldn't have to.

Sincerely,

Allan and Andrea

Dear Sir:

Please see that the Children's T.V. Act of 1990 is enforced!

Please stop the flood of advertising on educational programs.
We need more educational programs, and at times that our children are at home to watch them!

Dear Mr. Hundt:

This letter is regarding my interest in the Children's Television Act of 1990. As a concerned parent and member of the NAFCE (National Association for Family and Community Education), I would like to see the guidelines for the enforcement of the Children's Television Act of 1990 strengthened. It is so important that we provide more educational and informative programs for children.

As you know, children are our country's future. It is our responsibility to make sure they are raised and educated to be strong, intelligent U.S. citizens. Guidelines must be strengthened to enforce all television stations to do their part in airing better quality educational programs for children during prime viewing hours.

Illiteracy and school drop-out rates are rising--we are failing our children and our nation is hurting. We must all do our part to improve what comes across the television screen.

Please do what you can to help us get our views across. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Leier

I have great concern with regard to what is seen on television. As a parent of three teenage children, I am concerned with the amount of violence in TV programming. I have concern that the amount of violence on TV also has an effect on young children. I encourage better programming of interest to children + families.
